

A straw power plant supplies potato flour factories in Brande with electricity and process steam see

Heat pumps are integrated in the straw power plant and absorb waste heat after the factories or by cooling air in cooling towers. District heating towns in the catchment area of Brande are supplied with district heating see

